PERFECTING YOUR PUTTING TECHNIQUE

How to Perfect Your Impact When Putting:

The goal of putting is simple: get the ball from a point on or just off the green into the hole. If it doesn't drop in, the next best outcome is leaving it as close to the hole as possible.

To achieve this, your putting technique must focus on starting the ball as close as possible to the intended target line; controlling the pace of the ball as it leaves the clubface; striking the ball consistently in the center of the clubface.

The position of the putter face at impact influences the ball's start line five times more than your stroke path. Your goal is to develop a stroke that makes it easy to start the ball consistently on your intended target line. Even a small error can make a big difference. If the ball starts just 1 degree off its target line, it will be about 5 cm off by the time it reaches 3 meters.

A 2-degree error will result in an even greater miss. This means that if you can't hit a target just 2 feet in front of you, sinking putts consistently from inside 3 meters becomes nearly impossible.

Place two tees about 2 feet in front of you, creating a small goal; putt the ball through the goal, ensuring it stays on line. If you hit the tee on the right or left, it indicates whether you are pulling or pushing your putts. Challenge yourself to sink as many in a row as possible!

Mastering this will help you roll the ball precisely where you intend, leading to more made putts and lower scores □□
